It is the Lord who goes before you. He will be with you; he will not fail you or forsake you. Do not fear or be dismayed.’ (Deuteronomy 31:8)

Transitions. Transitions can be defined in countless ways. Sometimes transitions are full of celebration and feelings of accomplishment and expectation for the future. Many of us celebrated these transitions in the form of graduation ceremonies and parties this last spring and summer. Other transitions can be filled with fear or even dread; a divorce, loss of a job, a best friend moving far away from us, or maybe even death. Some transitions can go totally unnoticed and therefore not properly celebrated, possibly resulting in hurt feelings, feelings of unworthiness or even feelings of irrelevance. These can be identified as easily as missed or forgotten birthdays, anniversaries, or not being appreciated for a job well done.

The problem is life is dynamic and always changing. Life does not stop moving until the energy of what we call, “life” is all used up and our body ceases to be alive. Change, transitions, new relationships, new responsibilities, new opportunities to grow and learn, even the seasons and the flora and fauna that surrounds us, constantly remind of us that, as of this morning, we have been given another new day to live, learn, love, and laugh.

In my life, our oldest is “leaving the nest” and I can feel in all my being, the fear and excitement I have for him as he makes one of the biggest transitions in his life and begins a new chapter in his life. Did we teach him well enough? Can he take care of his finances, health and keep a schedule without us constantly watching over him? We will find out soon enough. But just as important, did we take the time to celebrate his growing up years in a fashion that helps him make the leap into adulthood and feel comfortable with his own abilities and maturity as his own person?

I really think it is important to stop our business, and acknowledge the transitions we must go through on this journey of life. Through the end of August and into September, as a congregation, we will acknowledge change and transitions as we install the teachers of our Montessori School. We will bless the backpacks of all our kids acknowledging their new life in a new grade or school. We will celebrate our ever changing congregation on Rally Sunday acknowledging and celebrating who we are and introducing all of our members, especially our “new members” to the many opportunities we have to share faith in our very blessed church.

As People of Faith, we need not fear change and transitions. God has made a promise to be with at all times, especially during the difficult times. (Just keep the song, “Jesus Loves Me” close to your heart and lips at all times!) Change and transition was not easy for Jesus either. That is why we call his ministry a “Journey to the Cross.” And he walked this journey to demonstrate there is NOTHING that can separate us from the love of God.

See you at church!

Pastor Tim
Several months ago we were running errands. Almost all the items on the “to do” list were crossed out when we saw him. Actually, we didn’t see him. Marcus, my partner saw him.

He was a mess. He was slouching on top of a wall—more folded on himself than sitting. His long, scraggly beard was as unkempt as his hair, and he looked to be as dirty as his clothes.

I was too busy driving to have noticed him and I wouldn’t have seen him had not Marcus said, “Oh, brother is wasted.” Only then did I notice the man perched atop the wall.

I was caught off-guard, not by what I saw or by what Marcus said, but by how Marcus said it. There was no judgment or harshness in his voice. Instead, there was profound compassion and even a hint of sadness.

Marcus looked beyond the man’s appearance and recognized the intrinsic worth of this person. I, on the other hand, was stuck. I saw the blank expression on his face and the lifeless look of his eyes. I saw but I didn’t see.

Without judgment or excuses Marcus talked about the loss that occurs when, for whatever reasons, we do not or cannot become the persons we are meant to become. He spoke with such directness and openness, and with such an awareness of the depth of pain, that I felt as if I was hearing God’s voice reminding me of the holiness of all life and the innate worth we all possess.

It was as if God was saying, “Don’t ever forget that this person, as wasted and depleted as he appears, is my child. I love him. He is of inestimable worth to me, and don’t even think for an instant that I don’t grieve for him.”

I’ve been thinking a lot lately about this man perched atop that wall and all that was said about him. I cannot help but remember Charlotte Elliott’s hymn. It speaks to us and for us today as powerfully as it did when she wrote it in 1834.

Just as I am, without one plea
But that thy blood was shed for me,
And that thou bidd’st me come to thee,
O Lamb of God, I come! I come!

Just as I am, though tossed about
With many a conflict, many a doubt;
Fightings within and fears without,
O Lamb of God, I come! I come!

Just as I am, poor, wretched, blind;
Sight, riches, healing of the mind,
Yea, all I need, in thee to find,
O Lamb of God, I come! I come!

Just as I am: thou wilt receive;
Wilt welcome, pardon, cleanse, relieve,
Because thy promise I believe,
O Lamb of God, I come! I come!

Just as I am, thy love unknown
Has broken every barrier down;
Now to be thine, yea, thine alone,
O Lamb of God, I come! I come!

Keep singing! See you in worship—
The month of August has been a busy one for Calvary by the Sea Montessori School. The classrooms have come alive again as the teachers and students returned for the start of school. I would like to extend a warm welcome back to all the staff, students, and families. It is so nice to see the children in the classroom interacting with each other and working with the Montessori lessons. This is a busy time of year as everyone is getting back into the rhythm of the school day. It is always a joy to watch the year unfold and witness the many changes that take place over the course of the year.

On behalf of the school staff and families, I would like to express our gratitude for the beautiful service that included the Teacher Installation and Blessing of the Families on August 18. We are grateful for the opportunity to be a mission of Calvary by the Sea Church in such a beautiful space and location. On October 17 we will be having our first Parent Workshop for families. I would like to invite any parents of Calvary by the Sea that are interested in learning more about child development for young children. The topic will be announced this coming month. I look forward to sharing more about the events of this coming school year as they take place.

Excerpts from the Brown’s monthly letter:

Graduation Dat at Mbingo! (July 20, 2013)
Some quotes from our graduates

Jerry Fahnloe Brown, Liberia:
“Thank you to those who have supported me in this training. Liberia is a country of 5 million, with less than 100 physicians and only 5 trained surgeons. You have not only invested in an individual, you have invested in a nation.”

Gerald Ekwen, Camarron:
“I want to say thank you to my wife, Bertha, for all her sacrifices. You were willing to diminish that I might increase... Thank you to the CBC for laying down the foundation on which this program rests.”

Dagaulle Mifila, Democratic Republic of Congo:
“I want to thank the PAACS administration for keeping the academic standards high.”

We knew it would be a busy week, with many preparations for a grand celebration, guests arriving, and extra events to attend. We hadn’t anticipated how emotionally exhausted we’d be. Being the proud “parents” to 3 graduates and their spouses and just bursting with happiness over their accomplishments was draining! It was a wonderful ceremony and afterwards the 3 of them gave a huge party. There was food, dancing, and much rejoicing.

Thanks to all of you who by your support, prayers, and scarifies enable us to be here.

Stephen Ministry in Action:
ON THE FRONT LINES OF CARE

“I’ve given enough.”

U.S. Army Captain David Rozelle told his wife, Kim, from the hospital in Iraq. Overcome by grief and pain, he thought his ability and desire to serve were gone for good. But God still had other plans. It was on June 21, 2003, that David’s life had changed forever. Commander of Troop K in the Third Armored Cavalry Regiment, he was riding in a Humvee near Fallujah when a landmine exploded, badly damaging the vehicle and severely injuring his right foot. In spite of extreme pain and shock, David immediately thought of the safety of the 140 soldiers under his command—issuing orders to secure the site and evacuate casualties. Hours later, doctors at the combat support hospital amputated David’s lower right ankle and foot. After the surgery, David was flown to Qatar, then to Germany, and finally, on the eve of Independence Day 2003, to Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D.C., where he joined the amputees on Ward 57.

A Hero’s Joy and Sorrow

Weeks later, David returned home to Fort Carson, Colorado, arriving in time to be with Kim for the birth of their son, Forrest. In addition to becoming a father, David was also a hero. But any joy was short-lived; he spent day after day lying on the living room couch in a haze of depression. Kim’s love and patience and his joy in Forrest gave David the strength to move forward. A meeting with President Bush—and the President’s invitation to join him someday for a run—encouraged him even more. He resolved to overcome his fears and pain by strengthening his body.

Making Physical Progress

Eight surgeries and three months after the explosion, David received his prosthesis. He resumed rigorous physical activity and was soon fully functional, “jumping, walking steps, doing push-ups, and sprinting up small inclines.” Before long, he was on the Colorado slopes learning to ski again with the help of Disabled Sports USA.

A New Mission

Physical activity provided a temporary emotional respite, but around six months after the explosion in Iraq, a new reality struck. “I was lying on the couch, icing my leg, and it hit me, ‘I’m going to be like this forever,’” he said. “It finally sank in at all once. I was slowly realizing that I was going to have to adapt my lifestyle. My heart broke. It was after that day that my mind started to heal.” David now focused on two goals: his determination to return to the Army and his concern for the needs of others with injuries like his own. The first challenge—to be found fit for duty—was straightforward. The second challenge was more difficult. “I had left Walter Reed unarmored with what I needed to heal,” he said. “There was no established support system to take care of me.” Because he wanted to help other amputees, the Army sent him on a visit to Walter Reed Hospital. He went directly to Ward 57, where he sat, talked, and prayed with the amputees. Although they deeply appreciated his gift of time, David found their grief difficult to handle and knew he needed to be a better listener. He returned home, wondering, Where can I learn these skills?

Called to Stephen Ministry

In May 2004, David’s church, First Presbyterian Church in Colorado Springs—a Stephen Ministry congregation since 1981—was preparing to train another class of Stephen Ministers. David attended an information session and applied to serve as a Stephen Minister. In the application interview, “David described how he felt called to minister to other amputees,” said Stephen Leader Arlene Bosma. Soon David was part of the congregation’s eighth training class of Stephen Ministers. “David relies on his faith in Jesus Christ to sustain him in all situations,” said Rev. Jo-Ann Brechbill, Minister of Congregational Care and a Stephen Leader. “He took Stephen Ministry training because he wanted to be better prepared to help those who have challenges like his.”

A Stephen Minister on the Battlefield

During Stephen Ministry training, David received notice that the Army considered him “fit for duty.” He wondered where he’d want to serve. He discovered the answer when he welcomed his troop back from Iraq. As he celebrated their homecoming, he realized how much he loved being an Army captain and cavalryman. On June 17, 2004, he resumed command, just four days before the first anniversary of his injury. Two weeks later—just a few sessions before he completed his Stephen Ministry training—David returned to Iraq, the first soldier in history to become an amputee and then resume his command on the same battlefield. Back in Iraq, he frequently found himself using his Stephen Minister caregiving skills. “There are never enough chaplains to cover the needs of our soldiers,” he said. “Lay ministers are essential to our force.”

Looking to the Future

David had two goals for when he returned from Iraq: to become program director of a new amputee center at Walter Reed and to finish the last few sessions of his Stephen Minister training. “I want to give soldiers someone to talk to who has made it through what they’re facing, let them ask questions, and have them see me walking,” David said. Now, back from his tour of duty in Iraq, David is working toward achieving those goals. He is ministering to those at Walter Reed and working to establish an amputee center there.
